

How one email changed the night of a million district employees, forever.

REPLY TO ALL

How it went down:

TIMELINE

Emailer #73
I have received over 20 emails!!!

RESPONSES

It does not seem to match the district spread, but more High School teachers participated than any other. This activity seemed better suited to the humor level of a middle school teacher.

Think asking the internet to remove them will work

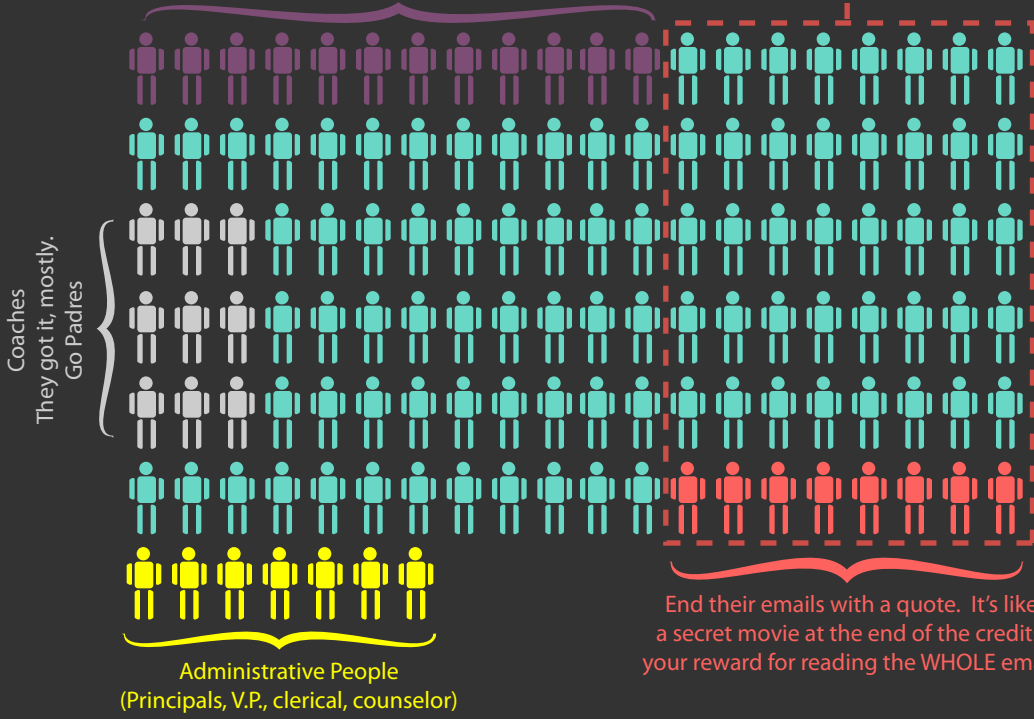

"KNOW" what is wrong, and have to say what

Feel the need to REPLY ALL to say STOP REPLYING ALL

Send email with their email address in their email signature. Maybe you missed who it's from and are too lazy to look at the "From:" line. These guys got you covered.

2
People

Responded to this email with an email from a different conversation

End their emails with a quote. It's like a secret movie at the end of the credits, your reward for reading the WHOLE email.

You Want To Know What Cellular I Got?

Much of the text was devoted to stating what mobile device one was replying on. What, iPhones are more popular? No.

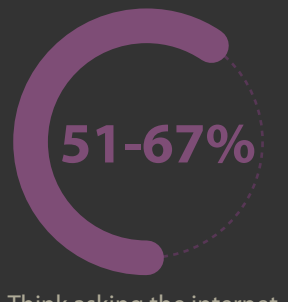

Percent of the district that did not reply, at all.
98.05%

While only 1.95% of the district replied to this email, that is enough for descriptive statistics to have a margin of error of 8.61% at the 95% confidence interval. If you care. But it does let you say some things about everybody...

Stanford has a higher acceptance rate than this email chain.
1.95%

IN THE DISTRICT

Think asking the internet to remove them will work

"KNOW" what is wrong, and have to say what

Feel the need to REPLY ALL to say STOP REPLYING ALL

151 How many times THANK was used

249 How many times PLEASE was used

Emailer #89
I have received over 40 emails!!!

Emailer #125
I have received a couple hundred emails!!!

General Statistics

Reponses: 127
Total Timeline: 15H 29M
Male: 42 Female: 85
Elementary: 39, Middle: 35, High School: 52
"Knows What is Wrong": Any email with extra sentences not containing "Take me off" or "Stop replying" were labeled as knowing something they thought was important for us all to know, whether it was how their day was, or where to put this email chain.